Burst water main affects 2,000 homes

Firm comes under fire after school closes

AROUND 2,000 homes were left without water for more than 24 hours this week.

The villages of Sutton, Stretham and Witchford were among those affected, from 11pm on Sunday night to 9pm on Monday, after a raft of maintenance problems plagued the water company.

The burst water main reduced pressure across the network, completely cutting off supplies in some areas, with nearly every road in Sutton affected.

Residents on York Road and Bellairs had their supplies completely cut off while others saw their's reduced to a "trickle".

The company was forced to re-route part of its water supply network and hand delivered bottled water to schools and vulnerable customers on its WaterCare register.

Despite the measures Sutton Primary School was forced to close its gates on Monday.

ROYAL VISIT

SPECIAL VISIT: The Queen meets the crowds at Newmarket after she unveiled a bronze sculpture (inset) depicting her from 1977

Queen unveils her new statue

SAMAR MAGUIRE
@SamarMaguireCN

NEWMARKET welcomed The Queen last Thursday as she unveiled a statue to celebrate her 90th birthday – after excited fans camped out overnight to see her.

Hundreds of people, including schoolchildren and families, paid tribute to Her Majesty as she walked on a red carpet through to Birdcage Walk.

Andy Drummond, Newmarket's mayor, said in his speech to the Queen: "Everybody is honoured and proud that you've been able to come to see their endeavours. It also gives me the opportunity to thank them. The beauty and quality of workmanship is nothing less than stunning.

"But it is not yet finished. One final jigsaw piece is for you to breathe life into it forever more. Therefore I invite you ma'am to officially cut the ribbon."

Prior to the visit, primary schoolchildren were waiting on the High Street. Many sang the national anthem in anticipation of the Queen's arrival.

Sixty-five army cadets, from areas such as Soham, Newmarket, Ely, and Waterbeach were also on the High Street.

The Queen, who arrived by helicopter, was greeted by hundred of people who watched her cut the ribbon at the statue with scissors presented to her by sculptors Etienne Millner and Charlie Langton.

The bronze statue depicts the Queen in 1977, the year of her Silver Jubilee. It is cast in bronze and set on a plinth of Portland Stone. It portrays Her Majesty with a mare and foal, at 120 per cent life size.

After she cut the ribbon to officially open the statue, she greeted many schoolchildren, who presented her with flowers.

Eight-year-old Lottie Turner, from Houldsworth Valley School, said: "I have never seen the Queen that close before!

"She also asked me if I had seen the helicopter."

Alex Gallas, 7, said: "She said thank you! I've really enjoyed seeing the Queen."

Linda Mitchell, 57, Susan Walsh, 73, and Josie Weeks, 60, from Leeds, had camped out overnight. Ms Walsh said: "It was very emotional seeing the Queen in her helicopter. I was tearing up."

Her Majesty was chaperoned through the High Street in her royal vehicle towards the National Heritage Centre, for its official opening.

She was met by Peter Jensen, chairman of the Horseracing Trust, and Chris Garibaldi, director of the National Horseracing Museum, where she had her own tour.

CULTURE

Exhibition puts WI in spotlight

A NEW exhibition at Ely Museum celebrates the centenary of the Women's Institute movement.

The Isle of Ely Federation has been taking a look at the lives of WI women in the area over the past 100 years.

The event is the culmination of three years' work by local members of the WI and is a tribute to "inspired and inspiring women".

Boosted by a grant from the Hertitage Lottery Fund, the WI reached out into the wider community, learning archival techniques by researching record and minute books and recording oral histories.

A spokesperson for the project said: "One of the most important outcomes of the project is that all WI archives are now in safe storage in the correct conditions at the Wisbech and Fenland Museum.

"Our hope is that this exhibition will bring, to all those who see it, a greater understanding of the relevance, importance and the continuous influence of the WI movement and the role of women."

The institution was founded in 1915 to help revitalise rural communities and encourage women to become more involved in producing food during the First World War.

It has been running ever since and new groups are still being founded in Cambridgeshire.

There was great enthusiasm for a new group founded in Soham last month, which holds meetings on the second Tuesday of every month at the Fountain pub.

The exhibition takes place at Ely Museum from November 12 to December 5.

The organisers are urging anyone who may have any old WI records in their possession to contact them on (01353) 6615.

Family in car crash meets up with ambulance crew

HEROES: paramedic Nathan Latimer and medical technician Kelly Thompson with Jake and Lucy Grossman

ANNA SAVVA
@Ely_News

A YOUNG girl and her family have been reunited with the ambulance crew who came to their rescue.

Lucy Grossman, 9, from Ely, was seriously injured when the family's car collided with another vehicle on the A14, near Hemingford, last September.

The whole family required treatment but Lucy was the most seriously injured, needing urgent attention for a facial injury and shock.

Staff from East of England Ambulance Service NHS Trust (EEAST) were on hand to provide speedy medical assistance and she has since made a full recovery.

On Sunday, October 30, the family had the chance to thank the team who saved them at Huntingdon ambulance station.

Lucy's mum, Jenny Grossman, praised the work of paramedic Nathan Latimer and emergency technician Kelly Thompson, for the superb level of care they received.

"The crews were fantastic on the day, it was a really scary time for us but they did everything in their power to keep us calm whilst making sure Lucy was okay," she said.

Lucy, who wants to be a doctor when she is older, and her brother Jake thoroughly enjoyed a tour of the station and the ambulances. She and her family were also treated to a lesson in basic life support skills.

Mrs Grossman added: "Lucy has been going on nonstop about this visit.

"We've just got back from a holiday but she was more interested in coming to the station."

The ambulance service has 357 ambulances providing 24 hour accident and emergency cover throughout Cambridgeshire and the East.

ACCIDENT

Van has roof ripped off trying to go under bridge

A VAN collided with Ely Road Bridge ripping off its roof, earlier this week.

No one was hurt in the incident on Monday morning, which was attended by a police officer and member of Network Rail.

It's the latest of many such incidents where a driver has missed height restriction signs for the low bridge near Ely Station car park.

It has become such a familiar a scene it's become something of a joke to some Ely residents.

Witness Andrew House said: "Whilst dropping my daughter off at Ely train station I noticed a van parked up just inside the entrance to the car park with a serious modification to its roof.

"Just when are they going to start on the new Ely road bypass? It's got the go ahead and funding."

Last month Cambridgeshire police Tweeted a picture of a similar scene with the caption: "even with nine warning signs and flashing warning signs".

Art raises cash for cancer research

ART Unequalled returned to The Maltings in Ely for its sixth year.

The annual event brought together a wealth of talented artists and craftsmen from across the UK, with some travelling from as far away as Scotland.

Showcasing everything from woodcarving to print making, each artist was selected for the quality of their craftsmanship, with many offering demonstrations.

This year's organisers raised funds for Cancer Research UK by holding an art raffle and selling a limited edition 2017 calendar featuring 24 pieces of artwork, with 100 per cent of the proceeds going to the charity.

Pc cleared of racist remarks

TARA COX
@TaraCoxCN

A CAMBRIDGESHIRE police officer who faced the sack after allegedly making racist remarks broke down in tears as a disciplinary panel ruled the case against him was not proved.

Pc Rodger White faced the panel last week after it was alleged he made the remarks at Brampton Hut Services on the A14 near Huntingdon.

He was on duty with the Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire and Hertfordshire Roads Policing Team at the time.

A police document released ahead of the hearing said: "It is alleged that on November 15, 2015, while on duty with the Road Policing Team, you were taking a refreshment break at the Brampton Hut Services with your colleagues and, while discussing the stop of an uninsured driver that you had conducted earlier on the shift, made a comment to the effect that: 'At the end of the day if they are black and from London I will fingerprint them, as you know what they are like, all lying bds.'

"It is alleged that this matter amounts to gross misconduct, namely a breach of the standards of professional behaviour that, if proved, is so serious that your dismissal would be justified."

The hearing was held at Wyboston Lakes Conference Centre.

Giving evidence, Pc James Styles said Pc White did make the comments, adding: "I was taken aback; it was massively out of character."

Another colleague, Pc Paul Hodgson, said he was stunned to hear what Pc White allegedly said but thought it was down to frustration.

Pc Hodgson stressed that PcWhite was not racist, adding: "It's the offence he looks at, not the person."

Pc John Mayer claimed Pc White said he would "always fingerprint black men from London as they lie".

However, Pc White claimed that on the day, he in fact said: "The black lads from London I have stopped and fingerprinted were all lying bds'.

He claimed this was a "factual statement", saying the four black males he stopped from London, and had fingerprinted, had all lied.

He said: "I've never been racist, never will and would challenge anyone who was."

Pc White told the panel that Pc Styles had "deliberately twisted" his comments to tarnish his credibility.

Giving their findings last Wednesday, panel chairman Colin Chapman said the case against Pc White could not be proved.

He added: "We find it was more likely than not that Pc Styles became concerned that his complaints were unheard, and he became emotionally driven to exaggerate or misinterpret what was said."

Mr Chapman said the panel found it likely that what was actually said was 'a factual statement, based on Pc White's experience of dealing with certain members of the public'. He added: "We are satisfied that Pc White did not say anything racist, therefore this was not a breach of the professional standards."

Cathedral has starring role in new drama

ELY Cathedral has been wowing global audiences as the centrepiece setting of Netflix's big budget biopic The Crown.

The Cambridgeshire landmark stands in for Westminster Abbey in episode one of the lavish new £100 million drama chronicling the early reign of Queen Elizabeth II.

Following the launch of the series last week, the News has delved into the archives to give you a behind the scenes look at filming.

The critically acclaimed 10-part drama was written by Peter Morgan, Oscar-nominated writer of 2006 film The Queen.

The new show has been described by actor Smith as stripping away "the mask" the royal family wears in public.

This is not the first time Ely Cathedral has taken the crown as a favourite of film location scouts. The 11th century 'Ship of the Fens' has been the historic setting for other British regal dramas, including The King's Speech (2010), Elizabeth: The Golden Age (1998) and Macbeth (2015).

The first season of The Crown is available to stream on Netflix.

DOWN THE AISLE: Claire Foy as Queen Elizabeth II in The Crown, also starring Jared Harris as King George VI, Matt Smith as Prince Philip and John Lithgow as Winston Churchill

Villagers to have say on skatepark

ANNA SAVVA
@Ely_News

HADDENHAM residents are being asked for their views on designs for a new skatepark.

Following a public petition, three contractors have been selected to present their ideas at an open parish council meeting later this month.

Haddenham Parish Council is now calling on residents to go along to choose which one they like best.

The skatepark was demolished last August after being vandalised and deemed past economical repair, to the dismay of residents who launched a petition to have it replaced.

Haddenham mum Tracy Knightley has been championing the cause alongside her son Leon Knightley, 16, and his best friend Ellis Garner.

She said: "Our skatepark was demolished during the summer holidays which was a bad time,

"I have a 16 year old that loves the skatepark and there are a lot of children that used it here and in surrounding villages."

After appealing to the council for an upgrade earlier in the year, Leon and Ellis were invited to take part in discussions for the demolished site.

Chairman of the project, Cllr David Lyon, said: "We invited three designers to come and listen to what the public would like.

"They have gone away to prepare their designs and are coming back at the end of the month to show them off.

"The parish council is very proactive and we really want to do this, so it will happen."

Helped by the backing of petitioners, the project will be part-funded by grants, with the rest coming from the parish purse and local donations.

It is understood the parish council is considering borrowing money from the public works loan board to make up some of the costs.

Cllr Lyon added: "In the scheme of things it's too big a sum for tabletop sales or bring-and-buys, but if anybody wants to chip in or local businesses want to help we wouldn't say no."

The new concrete-based design will be more hard-wearing than its timber counterpart, but is likely to cost well over £50,000 to design, build and install.

Writing on the online petition page, dad James Honey said: "My son and I used to love the skatepark and visited it on a regular basis.

"We are both really keen to help make this new park happen."

The design preview will take place between 5pm and 8pm on Wednesday, November 30, at The Arkenstall Centre.

So far 237 people have signed the online petition. To lend your support visit: ipetitions.com/petition/new-haddenham-skate-park

Speak before it is too late

EAST Cambs District Council will soon be publishing its latest draft local development plan indicating the areas in its parishes which it believes are suitable for construction of further housing. The public will be allowed to comment on these proposals.

Sutton has grown in the last 40 years from a small, pleasant rural village to the second largest in the ECDC area due to the numerous estates that have been built. Houses have been crammed in with few open spaces remaining.

In this period there has been little increase in infrastructure or services. The surgery and school are now struggling to cope.

The previous local plan was only signed off in April 2015 after full involvement with the residents under the "Vision for Sutton" consultation.

Due to the already large increase in housing, around 30% in the last 15 years alone, the residents indicated a level of 20-50 houses for the next 20 years on the northern boundary plus any minor ongoing development within the current development envelope. ECDC then added the option of further possible development on the northern boundary ignoring the views expressed by Sutton residents.

The requirement for a new local plan is at the behest of Government who have now decided that the April 2015 plan does not provide enough future housing and are aiming for about a further 12,000 dwellings to be built in the next 20 years in the district regardless of what the public prefer and despite the high levels of new building in recent years.

For the new draft local plan landowners and developers were offered the opportunity by ECDC to propose areas they would consider for development.

Many have grasped the opportunity to make a financial killing. I understand that seven sites were submitted for Sutton. Linden Homes are eager to build more than 300 homes on the north side of Sutton, and I understand intend to submit a initial planning application for 77 homes, as the first stage of development on this site.

In the past little has been done to provide the necessary facilities in this village. Due regard should be given to the residents wishes. Many roads are now in gridlock at busy times of the day. The heavy traffic has also been shown to be causing high levels of unhealthy pollution in urban areas.

There are already large planned developments in Northstowe, Ely, Cambridge and other likely locations at Waterbeach, Bourn etc. Do we really need more new dwellings in areas where there is a lack of facilities?

ECDC will decide the acceptable sites for development with some discussion with the parish council so it is important for residents to express their views.

The councils do have a vested interest in additional new housing since they each receive financial inducements in the form of the community infrastructure levy that the developer has to pay for each house built.

Once ECDC have made their decision on the suitable sites the residents and parish will be able to comment but ECDC and Government will make the final decision.

Residents who have concerns regarding what they want in Sutton should make their views known to ECDC and the local parish council before it is too late.

Sacrifices squandered

MUCH as I understand the angst of Cllr Woollard and many others over the result of the referendum, might I suggest they give honest thought as to what would have happened if it had been reversed.

I suggest that had Remain won by a handful of votes, the Leavers would have had to suck it up. The BBC would not have bombarded us with negative news, George Osborne would not have gone to the USA and bad mouthed the UK, nor would the rich celebrity luvvies who think they know what is best for our country. The BBC constantly pours out negativity, causing damage to our country. I think the Remainers are determined to ensure that Brexit fails. It distresses me beyond belief.

Fact: Lies were told on both sides, but Project Fear by Remain is what caused it to lose.

Fact: In 2015 the EU cost us over £8.5 billion net and yet we have let it get away with not getting its accounts signed off even by its own auditors. We continue to pay while being excluded from all meetings. We have been frequently fined and punished while other countries seem to do what they want and I blame our politicians for this.

Yet again I remind Remainers that massive human and financial sacrifices were made by British men and women (and later our allies) to liberate much of Europe and keep our country free. Those sacrifices have been squandered at the altar of political correctness, corruption and ignorance by the UK and the EU.

Meanwhile, everyone on TV is wearing a poppy while nothing is reported on the persecution of about 1,500 members of our armed forces who served in the illegal war in Iraq. This by an agency (IHAT) set up by Gordon Brown and the MoD. No such investigations or lawsuits are happening in the USA or France, they are not paying out millions in compensation to bombers and fraudsters from Iraq and Afghanistan.

The Shadow Home Secretary stated she is ashamed of being British, well she should be because her government sent our forces into an illegal war and then set about prosecuting them and now this government allows it to continue. Never mind "wear your poppy with pride" we should be wearing it "with shame". God forgive us all.

Pray we don't have bad winter

IT IS quite amazing that a bunch of Conservative councillors have waded in demanding that the minor injuries units are kept open: Would these be the same Conservatives who voted to ask the local NHS to contribute to council projects?

Would this be the same Tory Party that is slashing funding for the NHS?

How cynical can they be? Could it be that there is an election next year for some of them and they are desperate to claim a 'success'? After all, where is the promised bypass? Where is the promised leisure centre (now devoid of any form of water slides to create the leisure)? Where are the promised new homes (North Ely delayed until 2018)?

These are Tories who have let you all down time and again – slashing services and then calling them savings. Would they be the ones wanting to reduce levels of social care in the county, hitting our most vulnerable and putting even more pressure on the NHS services.

Pray that we don't have a harsh winter – because a massive cut in gritting could see Back Hill become a danger zone because of Conservative County Council cuts.

Action needed to free up beds

ADDENBROOKE'S Hospital – just 18 miles down the road from Ely and undoubtedly one of the world's finest hospitals – is today in crisis, partly because some 10% of its beds are occupied by patients who are medically fit to go home.

Some of these are Ely folk, they cannot come home because there is a lack of home care in Ely.

Is Ely such a cold, uncaring place?

Surely in Ely there are people who have the wit and the will to put in place a task force that can assist the professional carers to enable these people to return to their own homes, thus freeing up beds for those in need.

No doubt the bureaucratically minded will reply using meaningless words to prove that such actions require protocols and are therefore impossible.

May I suggest it's time to cut to the chase and take action.

Fundraiser for outdoor classroom

A SOHAM school is holding its first ever Christmas fair this month.

The Shade Primary School is hosting the gift and craft fair, on Thursday November 17, to help raise funds for a new outdoor classroom.

The event promises to feature "all those little things that you won't find on the High Street."

The Christmas gifts fundraiser will feature 25 stalls, with an array of local sellers offering everything from jewellery to homewares, beauty, art, books and food gifts.

Mulled wine and mince pies will be on offer to spread some Christmas cheer and stall holders will also be donating wares to a festive raffle.

Organisers hope to get shoppers into the mood for Christmas, while supporting their local school.

The funds raised will go toward the costs of applying for a £4,000 lottery grant to build the outdoor classroom, enabling children to develop themselves physically, as well as providing facilities for outdoor lessons.

Doors open at 7pm until 9pm. Ticket entry is £3 with all proceeds going to the school fund.

Speaking about the success of the magazine they said: "With each issue we discover new exciting writers from both East Anglia and further afield. Thank you to all our readers, contributors and supporters for helping the magazine grow."

The biannual magazine features new poetry and prose from emerging and established authors.

The editors are currently inviting submissions for the fourth issue on the theme "borders and bridges".

TRIBUTE: Reine Pryce-Jones and Catherine Sheppard performed the naming ceremony

Boat named after former vice-president

ELY Rowing Club has named a sculling boat in memory of its former vice-president.

His widow, Reine Pryce-Jones, and sister, Catherine Sheppard, made long journeys to perform the naming ceremony.

During the event Mr Pryce-Jones was praised by friends and members as having had a major influence on the club's foundation and development.

His connection with rowing began in 2003 when he helped to found the club as a tribute to the anniversary of the 1944 Ely University Boat Race.

Paying tribute, vice-president Derek Pickersgill said: "He managed to find a set of eight oars for the club's first boat and then took the trouble to paint them in club colours. We now have 120 members of all ages and its growth and vibrancy is due in no small measure to Dick's influence."

Mrs Pryce-Jones said that, although she had not visited the club before, whenever they sailed past it on the family narrow boat her husband always proudly pointed it out.

Work continues to save injuries unit

ANNA SAVVA
@ELy_News

A PUBLIC meeting has been held to discuss the future of the Princess of Wales Minor Injuries Unit in Ely.

The meeting followed the petition to save the minor injury units at Ely, Doddington and Wisbech.

The petition was started by campaigner Emma Watson last summer, after a leaked report showed the units were being threatened with closure because they failed to meet NHS efficiency standards.

A report to the Cambridge and Peterborough CCG described the MIUs as "not good value for money" and said that closing them was the only "realistic option in light of the CCG's "current fiscal position."

After public outcry the panel has been working with the NHS to put forward the case for a new "rural hub" model.

Speaking at the meeting held at Neale Wade Academy, last month, Mr Barclay said: "Retaining the walk-in element of our MIU's is vital and I, along with Lucy Frazer MP and constituents have made that absolutely clear.

"I am pleased that the CCG are seriously considering my rural hub model as this will ensure that MIU services will continue at these sites as well as consolidating other healthcare provisions for the ease of constituents."

Ms Frazer added: "I am glad that the CCG are putting thought into our alternative proposals, and listening to residents on this important issue.

"I too have held meetings with the CCG both individually and with Steve Barclay MP, and have made it clear that amalgamating community health services will enable the CCG to keep services local and will also be cost efficient."

POPPY LAUNCH: Members of the Cambridgeshire 876 RBL Riders Branch turned out in support of the Poppy Appeal last Saturday

'The Fallen' to be remembered

ANNA SAVVA
@Ely_News

THE Ely branch of the Royal British Legion launched its annual poppy appeal at the weekend.

The Deputy-Lord Lieutenant of Cambridgeshire, Colonel Colin Eisden, headed the launch at the poppy stall on the Market Place on Saturday.

Volunteers included uniformed ex-service personnel and members of the Cambridgeshire Royal British Legion Riders Branch, who parked their machines on the High Street to encourage donations for war veterans and their families.

A one-minute silence will be observed tomorrow for Armistice Day at 11am. In Ely, the High Street from Dolphin Lane will be closed off while a short remembrance and wreath-laying service is held at the war memorial.

On Remembrance Sunday, November 13, Ely's remembrance parade will be held at 10am.

Supported by the City of Ely Military Band, standards will be held aloft from St Mary's Green, Minster Place and Galley, toward Ely Cathedral where a service will be held. The parade will then lead the congregation to the war memorial, where members of the armed services, veterans and representatives will lay wreaths.

In Witchford former 115 Squadron airmen and families will be attending the remembrance service in St Andrew's church at 10.30am on Sunday, followed by a short service led by the Rev. Teresa Dixon around the 115 Squadron memorial.

Witchford's RAF display of memorabilia, on Lancaster Way Business Park, will remain open on Saturday and Sunday from 10am till 4pm. Admission is free.

Burst water main affects 2,000 homes

school criticised the company for its poor communication, leaving many parents having to make last-minute childcare arrangements.

She said: "I think most people understand that you can't send children to school with no water, it's not just they can't flush the toilet or wash their hands, the kitchen can't run and they can't clean.

"Luckily because I work in the village, in a public building, we couldn't open anyway because there was no water, so I didn't have to take a day off work to look after my daughter.

"I would have had to take a day's holiday otherwise."

On Monday a spokesperson for Anglian Water said: "We're sorry customers in and around the Haddenham, Wilburton and Sutton areas may have experienced low water pressure or had no water so far today.

"This was because of a burst main nearby which we've been working hard to repair since the early hours of this morning.

"Our teams were able to reroute water from other parts of the network to keep as many people's taps running as possible"

The homes were reconnected to the mains late Monday night, but leakage investigation repair and maintenance work is still on going across the affected region with the company carrying out "localised flushing" at standpipes to remove excess air.

School to fell trees posing danger risk

VITAL tree work is being carried out at one of King's Ely's sports fields to help prevent students, staff and members of the public coming to any harm.

As part of the school's ongoing tree management programme, several trees, including three large poplars, at the Amherst Field in Station Road, are being felled.

The school's annual tree health survey showed that several specimens pose a risk.

King's Ely's chief operating officer, Mark Hart, said: "After discussions with Ely's tree officer we have decided to fell these trees that are unfortunately in poor health."

King's Ely is committed to re-planting the area once the work is complete. The tree work will be carried out throughout November and December.

Two banned over neo-Nazi rally

RAYMOND BROWN & COLIN CORTBUS
@RaymondBrownCN

TWO people were banned from entering the UK to attend a neo-Nazi Blood & Honour rally in Haddenham, it has been revealed.

Cambridgeshire police have confirmed that two individuals – one French and the other Canadian – who were planning to attend the event were denied entry to the UK by Border Force.

In September, international extremist network Blood & Honour held its annual Ian Stuart Donaldson memorial concert in the village.

The festival held in memory of the English neo-Nazi musician who died in a car crash in the 1990s, draws hundreds of far-right activists from across continental Europe.

More than 350 people attended with many making Nazi salutes at the festival.

Cambridgeshire police said the force had been told about the Haddenham gathering, which was held over the weekend of September 23 and 24, and allowed it to go ahead.

The force confirmed last week that two foreign nationals who were planning to attend were denied entry into the UK after an intelligence-led operation in partnership with the Home Office.

A force spokesman said: "Following information that the Blood & Honour event was likely to take place in Cambridgeshire, we worked with a number of other agencies concerning intelligence on who may be attending. As a result of this, two individuals were denied entry to the country by Border Force."

Cambridgeshire also confirmed that the "two individuals were one French and one Canadian national".

A Home Office spokesperson would not comment on the specific bans, saying: "We do not routinely comment on individual cases."

Mr Donaldson died in a car crash in Derbyshire in 1993, aged 36.

Matthew Collins, from the Hope not Hate campaign group, said Blood & Honour is banned in a number of countries across Europe and in Russia.

He said: "The organisation was at its peak in the late 80s and early 90s when there was a Nazi-skinhead revival, but its influence has waned in no small part due to the quality of its music and its followers and due to a split in the 1990s that left the organisation almost dead in the water."

Minister praises cathedral's role

ANNA SAVVA
@Ely_News

GRAND TOUR: Lord Bourne with Ely cathedral's Very Rev Mark Bonney

The year long tour is designed to highlight the success of Anglican churches in adapting to the challenges of secular society.

Meeting with the Dean of Ely, the Very Rev Mark Bonney, the Minister praised the cathedral for being a hub for diverse communities and faiths in Cambridgeshire.

He said: "I am very pleased to be visiting Ely to learn about its role in the city. Each of the country's cathedrals is unique, but while they may differ in architectural style, each shares a commitment to their wider communities."

A spokesperson for the Church of England said there has been a "huge jump" in the number of ecumenical, volunteering and inter faith events being held in English cathedrals in recent years.

The Very Rev Bonney added: "I do believe that if Ely Cathedral were not here, the community within Ely and in Cambridgeshire would be severely diminished spiritually, socially and financially.

"The huge range of people who come and use the cathedral is testimony to it being a hub for so many in our community – we offer hospitality to them all, whether in the form of special services, or as a place to gather and celebrate together."

While on tour the Minister also hopes to champion the work of the government's cathedral fund which received a £20m boost this year, with Ely Cathedral getting £150,000 for emergency rewiring.

TRACTOR ATTRACTION: Youngsters were treated to a visit from farmer Leslie Murfitt

Young 'farmers' bring in harvest

A NURSERY class of budding farmers brought in the harvest in style this autumn.

The class of 25 children, aged 3 and 4, from Stepping Stones Pre-School in Littleport, were treated to a tractor visit from farmer Leslie Murfitt, learned how bread is made at the Co-operative supermarket on Wisbech Road and were shown how potatoes are turned into Corker's Crisps.

Parents joined in the harvest project by donating items to the local food bank at St George's Church.

ROMANCE LACKS A TEAR-JERKING TOUCH

THE LIGHT BETWEEN OCEANS (12A)

AS A genre, the sweeping romance is one that's been overlooked in recent years, so there is much excitement about The Light Between Oceans, an adaptation of the 2012 best-selling novel by M.L. Steadman.

The film is set shortly after the First World War and follows Tom Sherbourne (Michael Fassbender), a man seeking a peaceful existence after his horrific experiences on the front line.

He puts himself forward for the role of lighthouse keeper on the uninhabited Janus Rock off the west coast of Australia. There he falls for the vibrant Isabel Graysmark (Alicia Vikander), a young woman who lives in the harbour town. They marry and for a while lead an idyllic existence.

Tom manages to slowly shake the horror of his past, and Isabel blooms. But as time passes, they're delivered devastating blows to any hope of having a family of their own.

One day, a rowing boat washes ashore. Inside they find a dead man and a crying baby.

Isabel, desperate and broken, pleads with Tom to raise the girl as their own. Despite his reservations, he relents and the trio flourish miles from inquisitive locals. But on one of their visits to the mainland, Tom discovers a local woman, Hannah (Rachel Weisz) who's grieving a husband and child lost at sea.

He contacts Hannah anonymously; a decision that sets into motion a chain of events with devastating and long-lasting consequences.

The film looks marvellous, as do Fassbender and Vikander as they look wistfully out to the vast ocean. But while they individually put in captivating performances, there's an element of passion lacking, which is surprising given the pair fell in love for real during the shoot.

You're never quite wrapped up in Tom and Isabel's world and for that reason the climactic scenes lack oomph.

Combine that with a plot that teeters on the preposterous and you're left with a pleasant but not tear-jerking two hours.

■ Review by Susan Griffin.

NOCTURNAL ANIMALS (15)

AFTER the success of A Single Man in 2009, designer Tom Ford returns to film directing with a gripping psychological thriller.

Los Angeles gallery owner Susan Morrow (Amy Adams) stages provocative exhibitions, which elicit coos of appreciation from her pals Alessia (Andrea Riseborough) and Carlos (Michael Sheen), but are – by her own admission – emotionally numb.

That's also a succinct description for her marriage to philandering businessman Hutton (Armie Hammer), whose financial woes impact the gallery's future.

Out of the blue, Susan receives a manuscript from her first husband, Edward (Jake Gyllenhaal).

Susan and Edward haven't spoken in 19 years, so his communication is both intriguing and unsettling.

Amy Adams as Susan Morrow

With Hutton away on business, Susan devours the pages of Edward's manuscript and in her mind's eye, she imagines Tony Hastings (Gyllenhaal again), his wife Laura (Isla Fisher) and teenage daughter India (Ellie Bamber) taking a late night drive. On an empty stretch of desert highway, the family is terrorised by Ray Marcus (Aaron Taylor-Johnson) and his buddies. Laura and India are abducted and local detective Bobby Andes (Michael Shannon) supports Tony as the husband discovers the women's horrifying fate.

ALSO SHOWING

A STREET CAT NAMED BOB (12A)

JAMES (Luke Treadaway, right) sleeps rough like his friend Baz (Darren Evans) and earns a few precious coins each day by playing his guitar. Every week he visits support worker Val (Joanne Froggatt), who oversees the methadone programme that is the first step towards defeating his heroin addiction.

Val secures James a flat to aid his recovery and the busker makes two new friends: a free-spirited neighbour called Belle (Ruta Gedmintas), and a stray cat, which he christens Bob. Bob's presence at busking gigs inspires generosity from normally resistant passersby and James' confidence grows that he can turn his life around by selling copies of the Big Issue as well as performing, and rebuild bridges with his father Nigel (Anthony Head).

However, Val is concerned that James might be anchoring his entire recovery to an animal, who could slink away just as quickly as he arrived.

THE ACCOUNTANT (15)

CHRISTIAN WOLFF (Ben Affleck, right) investigates embezzlement, insider trading and other financial irregularities in criminal enterprises. He works alone and is ruthless in his pursuit of wrongdoing. The Treasury Department, led by financial crimes director, Raymond King (JK Simmons), is determined to expose Wolff as the shadowy figure called The Accountant.

King blackmails ambitious analyst Marybeth Medina (Cynthia Addai-Robinson) into following the evidence and confirming Wolff's involvement.

Meanwhile, Wolff is hired by Living Robotics CEO Lamar Blackburn (John Lithgow), to verify the findings of in-house accountant Dana Cummings (Anna Kendrick), who alleges more than $60m of company funds have gone astray. Wolff's forensic examination of the data coincides with a series of deaths orchestrated by a hit man (Jon Bernthal).

DOCTOR STRANGE (12A)

STEPHEN STRANGE (Benedict Cumberbatch, right) is a brilliant neurosurgeon, with a minimalist Manhattan apartment and an off-limits romance with fellow medic, Christine Palmer (Rachel McAdams). Years of study are jeopardised when Strange takes a telephone call in his speeding silver Lamborghini. Medical colleagues save his life, but not his career, surgically refashioning his trembling hands with metal pins.

Strange heads to Kathmandu in search of spiritual enlightenment in the company of an enigmatic Celtic shaman, The Ancient One (Tilda Swinton), who harnesses energy to shape reality.

Two of her Masters, Karl Mordo (Chiwetel Ejiofor) and Wong (Benedict Wong), train Strange so he can travel long distances with a swish of his hand. As his confidence grows, Strange learns about a former Master, Kaecilius (Mads Mikkelsen), who uses his powers for evil. When he threatens Strange's old life, the medic puts his training into practice to save everything he holds dear.

End of the road for company cars?

Vanessa Pearson specialises in tax advice for SME's at Whiting & Partners

First, the good news. Earlier this year, the government announced they would save employees with company cars up to £75 per year, by extending the freeze on fuel duty. Businesses purchasing low emission cars will also be able to claim 100% tax relief in the year of purchase.

In contrast, other news about company cars was not so encouraging. Employees pay tax on company cars based on a percentage of their list price – not necessarily the actual cost of the car. Over the next three years, those percentages are set to rise by 7% for most cars, but for the lowest CO2 emissions –

0-50 g/km – the rate is increasing by a massive 9%.

HMRC are also consulting on whether to crack down on salary sacrifice schemes from April 2017. Employees and employers would then have to pay higher amounts of tax and national insurance, based on the amount of salary sacrificed rather than the lower "tax value" of the car.

Weighing up the benefit of providing cars to employees and their cost to your business requires careful consideration. Now may be the time to review your company car scheme, and to consider explaining the possible impact of these changes to employees and their tax bill.

Question - How will the proposed tax changes affect the lettings market?

Sarah Bush, Director, Lettings at Cheffins comments:

The government is certainly not being friendly towards landlords at the moment, and in next month's Autumn Statement there are plans for a restriction on tax relief on finance costs for buy-to-let landlords from April 2017. By only 2020, mortgage interest will not be deductible from working out rental profits with tax relief. The reality is that this will end up with some landlords tax bills outweighing their profit within four years and with tax rates being in excess of 150 per cent not being uncommon for portfolios with large mortgages attached. Once this is announced, career landlords with multiple properties may well take a step back from the market and start to reconsider their affairs. Whilst property does remain the most secure investment against other assets, aggressive measures from the government will make an impact across the buy-to-let market and the prospect of having to pay tax even when making a loss will cause serious issues. Despite this, landlords can be savvy about how to still use the buy-to-let market for a profit and these measures will not be applied to companies or holiday lettings. As a result, I wouldn't be surprised if we saw an increase in buy-to-let homes being purchased through companies rather than individuals.

The National Landlords Association has found that more than 340,000 landlords will be affected by these changes and this will result in a removal of 615,000 units from the private rental sector and that 9 out of 10 landlords will now increase rents in order to recoup their profits. The reality is that landlords now need to act smart and employ an accountant who knows their rights when it comes to changes to legislation and tax.

For short term buy-to-let investments with landlords looking to make high yields and earn fast from their properties, these changes will no doubt make them uneasy, however for investors looking for a long term arrangement with high capital gains I would expect they will factor in these costs and not take too much notice. Rents are definitely still increasing and these changes will cause a drop in supply with demand staying strong, which will in turn push up rental prices. Cambridge in particular has always been a buy-to-let hotspot due to the high demand caused by the rising sales prices and employment in the area. Luckily our market has not been affected as heavily as the rest of the UK following Brexit and I should think that it will still stand firm after the announcements in the Autumn Statement.

If a family home is what you are looking for, this might be it. What my vendors were after when they were planning to buy their family home was a spacious house with a really good size garden for their children to be able to go out and play safely and freely and a good amount of living space with decent size bedrooms also. Their actual intentions were to stay there permanently as there was plenty of parking for when the children got to a teenager stage. The spacious garden meant that there could be room to extend, obviously subject to the usual planning permission. HRT0385

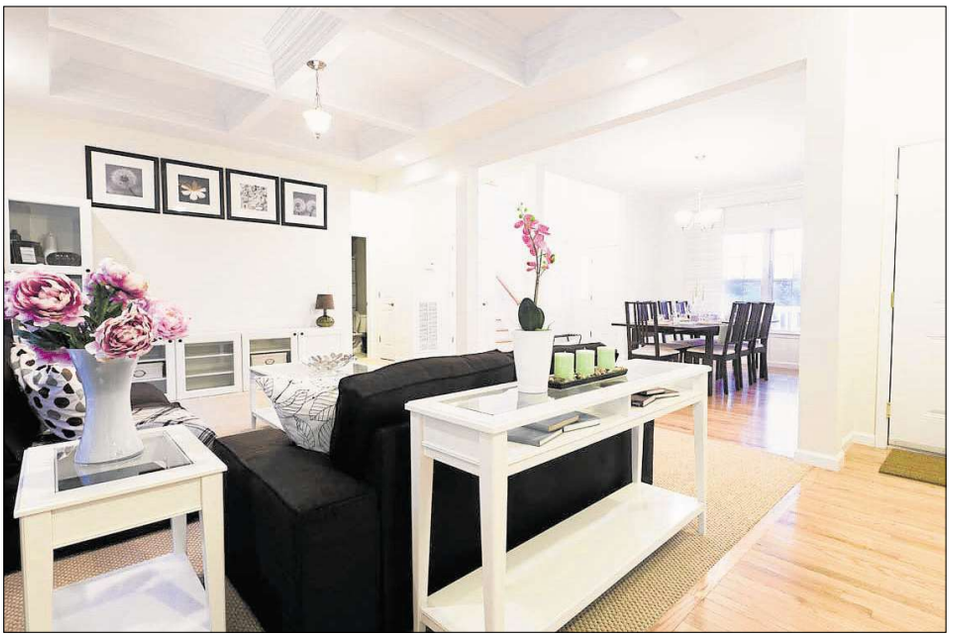
Adapting a home for wider family

LOTS of family homes are under strain, with adult kids who can't afford to leave and elderly parents who need support, so can you adapt your home to suit everyone?

Here's five tips for encouraging the best multi-generational homes:

1. It's important to think through all your family's needs when adapting and expanding your home, because doing the wrong home improvements can be an expensive mistake.

I know a couple, for example, who are trying to force their starter home into being a family home now that they have three children. They've converted the loft into a bedroom and built a home office in the back garden, but the office takes up half the garden and the house is top heavy, with too many bedrooms for the amount of living space downstairs. They've spent a lot of money, but not necessarily on the right home improvements – or the right house.



OPEN-PLAN: Enables everyone to be together, which promotes family discourse (hopefully of a positive variety!

2. Open-plan living space (usually a kitchen-diner/family room) is what most families want because it's great for entertaining and enables everyone to be together, but doing different things if they want.

The key to successful open-plan space is to divide it into different 'zones', so you have clearly defined areas for cooking, dining, sitting, studying, etc. Open-plan kitchen-diners/family rooms are often achieved by knocking two or more rooms into one and adding a ground-floor extension, which isn't cheap but can be a lifesaver in busy multi-generational homes. Separating living space, such as a more formal sitting room away from the hustle and bustle of family life, can also be ideal for some family members.

3. If you have three or more generations living under one roof, dividing up the house horizontally for sleeping is often the best solution.

Having mum and dad in a loft conversion with an en suite, the kids on the first floor with the family bathroom, and the grandparents on the ground floor with a bathroom, shower room or wet room, is a great arrangement, if there's enough space. Loft conversions can be done successfully in all sorts of homes, but finding space for a ground-floor bedroom and bathroom, shower room or wet room can be more of a challenge.

4. A downstairs cloakroom, comprising a toilet and basin, is a must in family homes, and sometimes even a small cloakroom can be turned into a shower room or wet room for elderly family members who struggle to get up the stairs.

When the cloakroom is too tiny for a shower tray, opt for a wet room, where the whole room effectively becomes the shower tray. The only problem is that wet rooms can be expensive because of the waterproofing and tiling involved.

5. Many homes have a separate loo and bathroom.
This is a dated layout, but can work better in multi-generational homes than knocking the two rooms together, because a separate loo can still be used when someone's in the bathroom.

Separate loos rarely have basins, though, so fitting a small one, such as the Wickes Mode Compact Vanity Unit with Basin (£200, Wickes), is a really good idea. Nothing can lead to family tensions more than queues for the loo or shower, especially when everyone's getting ready at the same time, so getting the plumbing right can go a long way to creating multi-generational harmony.

■ How to tip
Once the tin's opened, oil-based paints soon develop a visible 'skin' on top, so make sure you remove it before stirring the paint or you'll get bits in it, which is very annoying when you use it.

A similar thing can happen with water-based paints, although you won't be able to see the skin. Keep the lid on tightly as much as possible and a skin shouldn't form, but if it does and the paint's full of bits, try straining it.

Facebook says Admiral policy will not be valid

FACEBOOK has said insurance giant Admiral will not be allowed to offer drivers reduced quotes by allowing their profiles to be scoured in a bid to determine their personalities.

Admiral had been planning to offer people buying their first car the option of joining a scheme which could see them getting discounts of up to 15 per cent.

The insurer has now rowed back on the plans, which would have used algorithms to analyse Facebook profiles to determine whether prospective customers would be careful drivers.

Facebook, which has strict policies about the sharing of information, said accounts are only used for login and verification purposes.

A Facebook spokeswoman said: "Protecting the privacy of the people on Facebook is of utmost importance to us.

"We have clear guidelines that prevent information being obtained from Facebook from being used to make decisions about eligibility.

SIGN-OFF: Admiral gets a 'no' from Facebook for profile usage

"We have made sure anyone using this app is protected by our guidelines and that no Facebook user data is used to assess their eligibility. Facebook accounts will only be used for login and verification purposes.

"Our understanding is that Admiral will then ask users who sign up to answer questions which will be used to assess their eligibility."

An Admiral spokeswoman said the initiative will still go ahead – but with a reduced functionality.

She said: "Admiral does not have access to customers' Facebook data and does not hold social media data to set prices for its customers.

"Following discussions with Facebook the product is launching with reduced functionality, allowing first-time drivers to login using Facebook and share some information to secure a faster, simpler and discounted quote."

Louise Haigh, shadow minister for the digital economy, said the Government urgently needs to establish the parameters and ethics around the use of data on social media.

Ms Haigh, who has a background in the insurance industry, said: "We need to get ahead of the game."

Tom Jones, head of policy at law firm Thompsons Solicitors, said insurers want to play "Big Brother".

On its website, Admiral had said: "We want to help make sure safe drivers aren't penalised and get the best price possible. To do this, we'll look at your Facebook profile to help us get a better understanding of the type of driver you are.

"There's a proven link between personality and how people drive, and our clever technology allows us to predict who is likely to be a safe driver."

According to an index from the AA, young drivers aged 17 to 22 face paying an average £1,286.96 for an annual policy. They pay the biggest premiums out of all the age groups.

Many insurers offer cheaper policies to young motorists who can demonstrate they are a good driver by having a black box fitted in their car to monitor their driving.

PREMIUM SPORTS COUPE: New Q60 prices start at £33,990

Infiniti Q60 goes on sale

INFINITI's premium sports coupe, the new Q60, has just gone on sale and first deliveries of the sleek-looking newcomer will be made in the UK early next year.

The all-new Q60 comes with the choice of two powertrains – a 2.0-litre petrol engine turbocharged to produce 208bhp and a 3.0-litre V6 twin-turbo boosted to a whopping 400bhp.

The new Infiniti will be up against the likes of the latest Mercedes C-Class Coupe, the upcoming Audi A5 and the Lexus RC.

Prices start at £33,990 for the entry level Premium specification and the Q60 comes with state-of-the-art features such as Infiniti's second-generation direct adaptive steering and a new dynamic digital suspension with drive mode selector.

Four specifications are on offer with Premium Tech, Sport and Sport Tech trims priced from £37,690 to £38,690.

High tech equipment includes intelligent cruise control with distance control assist enabling the drive to set a desired speed and the car will automatically and smoothly decelerate in slowing traffic.

When the ICC system traffics pace resumes will bring the Q60 back up to the pre-set speed and safety distance.

Another feature is active lane control which works with the adaptive steering to evaluate the road ahead, automatically making small steering angle corrections if the car experiences minor direction changes due to uneven road surfaces or crosswinds.

Infiniti says that the new Q60 should be one of the quietest cars around – but not on the entertainment front.

Fiat's iconic 124 turns 50

THE iconic Fiat convertible turns 50 this week. It was California Dreamin' back in 1966, and not by chance the model's exciting new evolution was presented in Los Angeles in 2015.

"The Turin Motor Show under the sign of optimism" was the venue for the launch. The glossy paintwork of the cars reflected the bright neon lights multiplying the effect: it was the 1960s and waves of enthusiasm were rolling across Italy.

650 billion Lira had been invested from the beginning of the decade to renew and develop the plants. In addition to generating employment, cars were the primary indicator of a country's welfare and its degree of civilisation.

The Fiat stand stood out for its sheer size in the exhibition hall, among those of 515 exhibitors from 13 different countries: visitors could admire the Fiat Dino, the production of which was being kicked off at the time, and the models which completed the 124 range. The 124 was an innovative car with an original style, a new concept of space, sophisticated engineering and state-of-the-art safety. It was an affordable, fast car, capable of carrying five people and their luggage in comfortable style.

The new Fiat 124 Spider is inspired by its 1966 predecessor and reinterprets them in a modern key. It has a streamline, timeless silhouette as well as the classic, perfectly proportioned side, the low centre of gravity, the retracted cockpit and the stretched bonnet of a real sports car.

Fiat 124 Spider fits the reliable four-cylinder 1.4-litre MultiAir turbo engine that delivers 140bhp and 240 Nm of peak torque available right away at 2,250rpm. Top speed is 136mph and it accelerates from 0-60mph in 7.5 seconds.

But don't worry, it's not going to disappear off your radar anytime soon.

THEN AND NOW: The Fiat 124 has an illustrous history – and future!

VAUXHALL: November 11 to 14 deal

Murketts offers £500 'free fuel' incentive

WHEN all the leaves are brown and the sky is grey, it can be tempting to stay at home, but instead of spending winter indoors, local Vauxhall retailer Murketts Vauxhall is encouraging drivers in East Anglia to get out and about in their new car by giving away £500 worth of free fuel.

From November 11 to 14, customers who purchase one of Vauxhall's brand new 66-plate vehicles from the retailer, with sites in Cambridge and Huntingdon, will be able to drive away with a pre-pay fuel card worth £500, enabling them to enjoy an altogether different winter fuel allowance.

During the four day event, customers will get £500 worth of free fuel on top of Vauxhall's other great offers. Furthermore, customers can also get 20 per cent off all genuine and approved Vauxhall accessories, including a vast array of equipment such as sat navs, iPhone/iPad cradles and cargo liners, when they purchase a new car or van during the event.

Mark Smith, group sales manager at Murketts Vauxhall, comments: "With festivities, frosts and visits to family and friends, winter is an incredibly exciting time. Instead of battening down the hatches and spending the season indoors, we want to enable our customers to seize the opportunity to hit the open road and explore more.

Aston launches pre-owned sports car programme

ASTON Martin has released the full details of Timeless – its new international, certified pre-owned sports car programme.

Timeless has been set up to ensure Aston Martin customers who purchase used vehicles through its 164-strong global dealership network are provided with "the very highest levels of quality, assurance and confidence".

The new scheme builds on the brand's existing used car programme, and covers all Aston Martin models from the past 10 years – including the rare V12 Zagato and One-77 models.

As part of the service, customers will receive benefits such as a comprehensive one-year warranty with full roadside assistance, a full technical inspection with hardware and software updates, and full verification of the car's service history.

Christian Marti, vice president and chief sales officer at Aston Martin, said: "I am very happy to see the launch of this new and improved pre-owned service.

"Additions such as the new inspection regime – which for the first time includes a comprehensive assessment and review of our cars' software, as well as their technical condition – can only add confidence for our buyers.

Timeless will be launched in the first quarter of 2017.

How to improve a car's performance by 70%

The effectiveness consultancy Benchmarketing recently analysed what happens when companies include press advertising in their media mix.

They looked at more than 500 econometric models, covering a five-year period and, as the table here shows, they found that adding newspapers dramatically increases the effectiveness of other media.

In the automotive sector they reviewed companies that ranged from the big spending German goliaths of the industry to medium sized independent carmakers.

And they discovered that by adding newspaper advertising to their campaigns, they cranked up their effectiveness by over 70%.

Increased effectiveness using newspapers

Retail	Automotive	Finance
2.8x	1.7x	5.7x

So, whatever the size your business or budget, get motoring into newspapers.

Fascias, Soffits & Guttering

GUTTER CLEARING SERVICE

Do your gutters have fallen leaves, sand, mud and other debris in them?
Most do, as with every rainfall the debris is washed into them from your roof top.
Do you want to save yourself the expensive repairs associated with the damage blocked gutters can cause to your home?
Regular clearing helps to prevent blocked gutters which can lead to costly repairs from burst pipes and water damage to your house structure.

Contact James on 01480 831970 (Evenings) or 07471164278 (Daytime) for an honest, reliable gutter clearing service.
Prices start at £20 a house.
Appointment times and quotations are available on request.
Public liability insurance held and CRB checked.

Mirror Books

*Anne's fee for this book goes to the RSPCA and the RNLI

How does an ordinary housewife become a notorious international criminal?

When Anne Darwin told the world – and her family – that her husband, John, had disappeared while canoeing in the North Sea, her life changed forever. She had just lied to the police, the press, her friends and neighbours and her own sons. While her husband hid next door, Anne claimed the life insurance – then left with him to start a new life in Panama. For the first time, Anne opens up about her part in the scheme; her marriage, her harrowing time behind bars and the runaway train of lies that followed their plan to defraud insurance companies with the aid of a canoe.

'It felt like the right time to tell my own story, in my own words...'

PROUD: Mark Farnham Ely School of Taekwondo pupils show off their certificates

Martial arts

Taekwondo students pass exams

STUDENTS from the Ely branch of the Mark Farnham Schools of Taekwondo successfully passed recent grading exams.

The exams took place in King's Lynn and were overseen by master Ron Sergiew, and there was an 100 per cent pass rate.

The youngsters start at white belt and work their way through yellow, green, blue and red belts before aiming for the black belts.

Ely pay for mistakes against Wanderers

ELY City boss Brady Stone was frustrated after mistakes at both ends of the pitch proved costly in a 4-2 loss at home to Ipswich Wanderers.

"It was a game we should have won but we ended up losing it," said Stone. "That was disappointing. Individual mistakes are costing us unfortunately."

Ipswich went in front in the 15th minute with a well-taken goal.

But Ely equalised from the penalty spot when Alex Theobald was brought down in the area.

Football

Theobald converted the penalty and then scored again five minutes later to put the Robins in front.

A mistake by Ollie Brookes allowed Ipswich to equalise and although Tom Williams, Brooks and Ash Walter went close to a second goal for Ely, Ipswich scored their third goal 10 minutes from time.

With every Ely player pushing forward in search of an equaliser, Ipswich then broke in the dying moments and scored a fourth goal.

Stone added: "We're not taking our chances and at the other end we're getting punished for our mistakes.

"We're in contention in every game but until we cut the mistakes out and convert our chances we're not going to pick up points. And we really need to pick up points now."

In the Ryman League, North Division, Ryan Sharman scored a consolation goal for Soham Town Rangers as they lost 3-1 at home to Haringey Borough.

Sharman opened the scoring to put Soham in front in the second minute, and the Greens held on to that lead until the visitors equalised on the half hour.

It remained 1-1 at half time but Soham were dealt a blow just three minutes into the second half when Marcus Hall was sent off for picking up a second yellow card.

Haringey went in front 10 minutes later, and scored again just after the hour to put the game beyond the hosts.

Tigers have to settle for a draw at Stowmarket

ELY drew 16-16 at Stowmarket in London League, Division 3NE on Saturday.

It was 6-6 at half time, with the Tigers' points coming from penalties kicked by Joel Scott Paul.

Rugby union

Ely had the wind advantage in the second half and, after an opponent was sin-binned, Nathan Brooks dotted down from the back of a rolling maul.

Scott Paul added the extras, but, from the kick-off, the ball was fumbled and the Stowmarket No 8 sprinted from the back of the scrum to go over the whitewash for a converted score.

The teams then traded penalties as they could not be separated – Scott Paul again slotting over for Ely before the visitors did likewise in front of the posts.

Hockey

Daniel secures England call-up

REBECCA Daniel has been selected for the England Hockey under-16 national age group squad.

The King's Ely pupil (pictured below) represented the South and East of England at the Futures Cup, playing for Saxon Tigers under-16s.

The Tigers finished second in the contest, and after her performances in the tournament, Daniel earned selection for the England under-16 squad.

Daniel, 15, will attend training at the Lilleshall National Sports Centre in Shropshire, starting this month.

Chanre Bond, head of girls' games at King's Ely, said: "Rebecca's talent was recognised quite early on.

"This is a fantastic and very well-deserved achievement. We wish her all the best in the upcoming training camps."

Girls' football

Isleham suffer defeat to Yaxley

ISLEHAM under-14 girls saw their unbeaten run of more than 50 games end with a 4-0 loss to Yaxley.

Yaxley took a 1-0 lead into half time and then dominated the second half with three goals.

Lois Brazier pulled off some fine saves in the Isleham goal to deny Yaxley even more goals.

Table tennis

Shepherd success

PAUL Shepherd claimed a maximum for Haddenham II as they drew with Soham Comrades IV in Ely & District League, Division Three.

Newcomer Harry Tietz opened the scoring for Haddenham with a hard-fought victory over Phil Gannon.

Andrew Gothard narrowly lost in the fifth set to Soham's Peter Claringbold, but later got some revenge by winning a five-setter against Gannon.

Soham's Ed Garret-Jones performed well for his brace of wins, but he could not get the better of the unbeaten Shepherd.
